

As Seen in Architectural Digest, September 2018

Houston Style

The Soul of Design

If you sit down with Julia Otero's portfolio, be prepared to remind yourself that you're looking at real-life spaces.

Perfectly styled with warmth and sophistication, Julia's designs reflect a magazine-style quality that her clients describe as beautiful and soulful. Her secret to such perfection, she says, lies in her passion for creating diverse spaces that mirror clients' design goals and aesthetics.

"I've always loved design, and when I came to America at age 16, something sparked inside of me," says Julia. Always looking to discover the value in cultures around her, Julia pursued her interior design degree from Rocky Mountain College of Art and Design and then went on to partner with one of the biggest design companies in northern California.

"I rely on these early experiences and my exposure to different cultures as I introduce clients to unique possibilities, like vegan choices, custom furniture and modern materials," says Julia. "Each client's space always combines diverse elements in a cohesive and organic way, and when clients trust me to lead them beyond their expectations, that's when the magic really starts to happen."

white antelope
INTERIORS 